In any large undertaking, there are many voices, hands, and minds that come together to make an event a success. I think there is little doubt in the minds of those who attended and those who planned this effort that we were successful in many of the goals we set out to achieve. AAAS proved to be an excellent and well-matched partner with NSF's Division of Undergraduate Education in this project. The project was supported through a grant to AAAS (DUE-0343734).

There were many individuals at the AAAS who helped in this effort. Yolanda George, who headed their effort, brought her many good ideas and excellent perspective to help improve, expand, and implement the ideas underlying the conference. Joanne Carney led the effort to involve Congress during the Hill session. Many other staff members of AAAS contributed as well, including Monica Amarelo, Wanda Best, Catherine Campos, Beth Elzer, Tracy Kelly, Alan Leshner, Shirley Malcom, Marty McGihon, Ginger Pinholster, and Sharon Watkins; however, no one could come close to the effort and skill brought to the project by David Neale. David and the staff he organized and led were one of the key reasons this conference was such a success. He organized hundreds of small details that kept the machinery running smoothly before, during, and after the event and cared for each attendee in a personal way that gave the entire event a connected and cohesive feeling. He is now pursuing a dual graduate degree program at Columbia University in Business Administration and in Education. We wish him well and know we will hear more from such a remarkable person in the future.

On the DUE side, a number of program officers contributed in many ways. The committee included Myles Boylan, Steve Cunningham, Connie Della-Piana, Kate Denniston, Liz Dorland, John Dwyer, Ken Gentili, Rosemary Haggett, Victoria Kwasiborski, Herb Levitan, Lee Anne Martinez, Dave McArthur, Duncan McBride, Ernest McDuffie, Russ Pimmel, Hal Richtol, Jeff Ryan, Roger Seals, Rich Taber, Liz Teles, Elizabeth Tran, Peter West, and Lee Zia. The poster sessions were organized and sorted by Roger Seals and Steve Cunningham. Connie Della-Piana, Ernest McDuffie, and Lee Zia contributed their time liberally to the overall design and structure of the conference. Dave McArthur organized and monitored the listserv. Kate Denniston and Steve Cunningham led the organization and writing efforts for this program book. Herb Levitan and Elizabeth Tran facilitated the student interaction component of the conference. Kate also proofed numerous copies of text for various outlets and helped make the flow of information consistent and excellent. It was a pleasure to chair this committee and help bring these ideas into focus through the hard work of so many talented people. That collaboration I will miss. The 2,000+ emails I will not.

Finally, we would like to thank the many workshop presenters, principal investigators, students, administrators, and plenary speakers for their contributions, good ideas, time, and willingness to share these with the conference. Their efforts are why innovations in education move forward and why the conference was a success.
