AAAS is offering a new program for companies seeking to elevate the role of science in society. As members of our Corporate Circle, companies will join AAAS in our mission to:

- Ensure that evidence-based science is at the decision-making table at the international, national, and local levels to address global challenges, from public health crises to climate change
- Advocate for investments in science and STEM education
- Strengthen and diversify the STEM workforce
- Promote and defend the integrity of science and its use

The program offers companies:

1. AAAS memberships for employees, with digital access to Science and the AAAS Member Community, where scientists across disciplines connect.
2. Complementary registrations for the AAAS Annual Meeting, the world’s largest multi-disciplinary scientific gathering.
3. Access to AAAS expertise, including one-on-one meetings with expert staff and customizable training, providing tools for communicating complex scientific information to journalists, policymakers, and the public.
4. Discounted custom publishing opportunities across the Science platforms.
5. Opportunities to select high schools to receive access to Science.
6. Recognition in Science, on the AAAS website, and in our annual report.
